

Nature's Armor

✓ Promotes gut development for young birds

✓ Provides extra care during times of stress

✓ Supports health during all phases of growout

“ Nature's Armor transformed our turkeys' gut health! The probiotic and fermentation blend keeps our flock thriving, even under stress. ”

Nature's Armor is not a single compound, but rather an ultra-concentrated fermentation extract of enzymes and metabolites blended with micronutrients and direct-fed microbials. It's the only liquid product containing fermentation products and live probiotic bacteria. These natural bioactives work synergistically to support health and performance when administered to turkeys under stress.

How It Works

Research shows that Nature's Armor supports efficient digestive health by balancing gut microbiota and optimizing the structure of the intestinal tissue. The combination of yeast fermentation products and our proprietary probiotic blend creates an environment that promotes gut development and maturation.

Directions for Use

Liquid formulation puts you in control: use it when and where you need it most! For best results, administer every other day throughout the production cycle. Nature's Armor can also be used to provide extra support during times of stress or challenge. See product label for complete directions.
